Faith in beating malaria

Former PM picks E Lancs town to help raise funds

By KATE TURNER

Blackburn has been selected by former Prime Minister Tony Blair to help lead the way in the fight against malaria.

The town has been chosen to be one of four locations in the UK to host a series of interfaith events which will raise money for sufferers of the disease.

Some 30 young people have been selected to act as 'faith fellows' as part of work by the Tony Blair Faith Foundation.

The fellows will live and work in different communities, bringing faith communities together, while raising money and awareness of malaria.

Blackburn Cathedral will play host to two of these fellows, who will live in the town for 10 months from September, and work with the cathedral to host a series of local events to raise awareness.

The cathedral was selected for its work in bringing communities together.

Canon Chris Chivers, from Blackburn Cathedral, said: "I am delighted to be working with the Tony Blair Faith Foundation and it is particularly timely with World Malaria Day, on April 25, coming up.

"Interfaith engagement and co-operation is ever more important in an increasingly uncertain and globalised world, and I believe these notable young people will make a difference by working together and inspiring others to do the same."

Mr Blair said: "I am delighted we have been able to select such an outstanding and admirable group of young people from the hundreds who applied for a position in the fellowship.

"I am certain they will accomplish a tremendous amount, especially working with such dedicated host organisations as Blackburn Cathedral.

"Faith communities around the world have historically achieved great things to combat global problems.

"I believe that by faiths coming together to tackle the problem of malaria deaths, as part of a global coalition, we can really prevent this disease."

The 'fellows' coming to Blackburn are Karem Issa, 24, of Birmingham, and Ushna Mughal, 21, of Bradford.

The Tony Blair Faith Foundation was set up in May 2008 to promote respect and understanding between major religions.

Biker's pain will be Poppy Appeal gain

A motorcyclist is bidding to break a world record by travelling 1,000 miles in under 24 hours on his Harley Davidson motorbike.

Personal guidance adviser Garry Phillips, who works for TWL Training Ltd, Richmond Terrace, Blackburn, will be joining Royal British Legion riders to raise money for this year's Poppy Appeal.

The riders will be attempting a world group record by having 200 people on the 1,000-mile ride all at the same time on June 20.

But it's unlikely to be a comfortable ride as the bike is 'hard-tailed' – meaning there is no rear suspension.

In fact, it's going to be so painful, Garry will be taking painkillers before he sets off to ensure his limbs don't seize up from the vibration of the engine on his 1999 Harley Davidson Sportster.

Garry, 55, from the Griffin area of the town, said: "The furthest I've ever travelled is 700 miles and that was hard, but this is going to be real pain barrier stuff. Because there's no suspension, it starts hurting after just one-and-a-half hours.

"I reckon it will take me around 17 hours to complete, starting at 8am and finishing at 1am the following day. However, it will be all worth it because the Poppy Appeal is such a worthy cause and I want to raise as much money as possible.

"The debt we owe to people who have served and fallen in conflict is massive and all donations will be gratefully received."

By BEN BRIGGS

THOUSAND MILES: Garry Phillips will be riding his Harley Davidson in the world record attempt

Garry's trek starts at famous bikers' venue Squires Café Bar at Sherburn-in-Elmet, West Yorkshire.

From there, he will join the M6 and head south through Cheshire, down to Devon and Cornwall, before going across to Dover.

From Kent, he will heading up to east London and then join the A1 back to Sherburn-in-Elmet. If you would like to make a donation, contact Garry on 01254 264347, or email garry.phillips@twluk.com

Blitz on booze

Complaints of anti-social behaviour and under-age drinking in Avenue Parade and the Peel Park playground, Accrington, on weekend nights have prompted a police crackdown. Officers said increased patrols had already resulted in a reduction in nuisance and "large amounts" of alcohol had been confiscated.

New club opens

By NAFEESA SHAN

A new nightclub has opened in Accrington which is aimed at kick-starting the town's nightlife with a more upmarket clientele.

Owners Leon Kelly, who toured the UK for 13 years with his band NRG, and Martin Smith have introduced a strict dress code. No-one wearing branded clothing, such as Henley's and Timberland, will be allowed in.

And it is hoped Level One Nightclub, in Warner Street, Accrington, which opened last Thursday, will revitalise Accrington town centre's traditional Sunday nightlife. A number of other bars have agreed to open late on Sundays for a six-week trial to see if they can bring the public back into town. The club, at the former Arcade Bar site, has the capacity for 250 people and a state-of-the-art LED flashing dance floor. Mr Kelly, who has played alongside the likes of 11, East 17 and The Vengaboys, will also be booking a 90s band once a month, with 911 making an appearance in May.

Mr Kelly said: "This is my first venture into the nightclub scene. Everyone seems to think I am mad to open a nightclub with all the doom and gloom around, but I firmly believe the only way out of a recession is to be positive."

He said they wanted to attract 'brand new people' to town, as well as those who have stopped visiting.

Mr Kelly said: "We are having a strict dress code, which is smart dress only, strictly no branded clothing."

Tributes paid to ex-council leader

By DAVID WATKINSON

A campaigning former council leader and highways boss has died after a battle with diabetes.

George Slynn, who ran Hyndburn Council for more than 11 years as Labour leader, will be remembered as a "passionate" and "knowledgeable" man who loved his home town of Great Harwood.

In a 24-year career, Coun Slynn, 73, also served on Lancashire County Council, many years as the executive member for highways.

Friends and colleagues said Coun Slynn was a "combative" councillor, but a kind man away from the town and county hall.

PASSIONATE: George Slynn

A former postman and union representative, he died last Thursday. He had developed diabetes and had lost a foot because of the disease.

County council leader Hazel Harding said: "He had a tremendous knowledge and used to use a filing system that consisted of several plastic carrier bags filled with notes.

"He was dedicated to those who elected him. And he was passionate about Hyndburn and the county as a whole.

"George could be very combative and enjoyed the to and fro of the council chamber."

Friend and colleague Coun Jean Battle said Coun Slynn was proud to have been the driving force behind the development of the Globe Centre, in Accrington.

She added: "He had plenty of vision and never stood still."

Coun Slynn was elected to the county council in 1981 and served until 2005. As a district councillor, he was Labour leader for many years and council leader from 1988 until 1999 when he lost the council to the Tories and Peter Britcliffe.

Hyndburn Council leader Coun Britcliffe said: "George and I had our ups and downs in the council chamber.

"However, no-one could dispute his passion, both as a councillor and county councillor, to improve the lives of people who live in Hyndburn, and particularly Great Harwood."

AT SPECSAVERS WE DON'T JUST TREAT HALF YOUR HEARING PROBLEM.

Hardly anybody loses their hearing in just one ear. So wearing one hearing aid can cause as many problems as it solves. In particular, it's hard to distinguish the sounds you want to hear from background noise, making speech hard to follow. However, the price of hearing aids has always made buying two prohibitively expensive.

Now, at Specsavers, we've changed all that. We offer two digital hearing aids for the price of one, from just £495. What's more, our hearing aids are made by world-leading manufacturers, and feature the latest digital technology.

At a Specsavers Hearing Centre, you'll only ever be seen by a professional Hearing Aid Audiologist. We offer a full two-year guarantee on all our digital hearing aids, and they come with free batteries for the first 12 months too.

Oberammergau The Passion Play

3-8 days by air from Manchester

May to September 2010 From £999.95pp

The play is performed every 10 years and this year will be the 41st performance maintaining the continuity of this unique event which first started when the village elders promised to perform the "play of the suffering, death and resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ" when they were spared from the Plague.

The play is performed 5 times a week from May until October and tens of thousands are expected to watch. The actors are all from the village of Oberammergau and it might be that your host serving breakfast to you in the morning is on stage playing a major role in the afternoon. The men, for example, will start to allow their hair to go uncut from mid 2009 and this adds to the flavour of this very special event. Even though the words are spoken in German, you will find yourself totally immersed in the dramatic music generated by a huge orchestra and choir, as well as the scenes, sets, and costumes as the Easter story is dramatically brought to life in front of your very eyes and will remain in your memory for many years to come.

Price Includes:-

• Return flight from Manchester • A ticket for the Passion Play - best seats offered • Transfers within the Oberammergau area • Return transfers from Airport to hotel • Airport taxes • Two nights hotel stay with breakfast • Dinner on day of arrival • Lunch in Oberammergau before play starts & dinner with several courses during the play interval

Superbugs claims 'wrong'

By TOM MOSELEY

East Lancashire health chiefs have hit back at claims by the Conservatives that they are failing to tackle hospital superbugs.

Following the death of the mother of Ribble Valley MP Nigel Evans from the Clostridium Difficile bug in Wales, his local Tory party issued a statement claiming local hospitals had "major cleanliness problems" and calling for wards to be closed and sterilised. The allegations included a shortage of cleaners at Royal Blackburn Hospital, concern by nurses about C Difficile, and plans to remove superbug-busting alcohol gel because it had been targeted by drunks.

But the claims have been refuted by Burnley General and the Royal Blackburn's deputy chief executive Lynn Wissett, who said: "We offer our condolences over the death of Mr Evans' mother.

"However, it is vitally important for public interest and confidence that we correct the blatant inaccuracies that the Ribble Valley Conservatives have publicised.

"We have seen infection rates plummet over the past few years, including an almost 75per cent reduction in MRSA over two years. Clostridium Difficile has nearly halved."

Ms Wissett said the hospital had recruited more cleaners and said there were no plans to replace the gel, although she admitted there were "extremely rare" cases when it had been drunk by patients.

According to Ms Wissett, the number of cases of C Diff at Blackburn and Burnley in 2008/09 dropped to 195 from 381 the previous year, while MRSA incidents fell from 30 to 17.

Ken Hind, senior vice- chairman of Ribble Valley Conservatives, said: "We feel that if the public consciousness is focused on this problem and action results, patients like Mrs Evans will not have died in vain and lives will be saved in other hospitals, even if it means closing wards, and increased costs for drastic sterilisation. A patient seeking treatment in an NHS hospital must be able to feel that during treatment they are safe from contracting infection in the hospital."

Droid's been good to me

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Anthony Daniels

What's that noise in the background?
A kettle. Being the international megastar that I am, I have to make my own tea. My kettle looks like a small version of R2-D2.

Why did you want to get involved with Star Wars: A Musical Journey?
I love classical and orchestral music. I can't play anything, but the buzz of feeling part of the orchestra is a real treat. I conducted the London Symphony Orchestra a few years ago, and it was the most staggering experience. I rehearsed with them as myself, but on the night walked out as C-3PO and the audience went crazy.

Are you in character for this?
No, but C-3PO has a habit of popping into one's psyche. He may appear, he'll certainly be there in spirit. He might just take over the script.

What is in your narration?
There are 16 speeches, in which I lay out the story in between the musical sections.

Did you think the character would still be alive 32 years after first playing him?
[Laughs] Not for a second! I'm very fond of C-3PO, and he's been good to me. I get to do gigs like this because of C-3PO! Wow, you know!

Anthony Daniels was born in Wiltshire on February 21 1946. He's best known for playing gold-suited droid C-3PO in the Star Wars franchise. He narrates Star Wars: A Musical Journey, which debuted at London's O2 Arena, before heading off for a full European tour. The show is scenes from the six Star Wars films played on a giant screen while accompanied live by the 86-strong London Philharmonic Orchestra. We caught up with Anthony on the phone to talk about his role in the production.

Jarre back on road

By MARTIN HUTCHINSON

Last year Jean Michel Jarre toured to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the release of his worldwide best-selling album Oxygene, and now he's back again to play Up Close And Personal.

Not known for his touring, the French keyboard wizard – son of award-winning film composer Maurice Jarre, who died recently – has a reputation for studio-based music, thanks to his instrumental albums such as Oxygene, Equinoxe, Zoolook, Rendez-Vous and Chronologie.

His multi-layered keyboards defined the electronic genre and many of his albums have sold in their millions.

On the live front, his concerts have been few, but spectacular, usually using whole buildings as backdrops, and he has broken the records for concert attendances on more than one occasion.

KEYBOARD WIZARD: Jean Michel Jarre

He is now embarking on what is only his fifth tour. "Because of the one-off, city-scale concerts I devised early on in my career, I never really missed the idea of touring," said Jarre, 60.

"But I enjoy the challenge of working on a large-scale event and being transported by the adrenalin rush of the single performance."

Speaking during a skiing holiday in the French Alps, Jarre explained: "It's an indispensable break that gets me through the year."

He said his last tour has changed his attitude to performing live.

"For the 30th anniversary of Oxygene I toured European theatres with a minimalist performance of the album on analogue synthesisers," he said.

"Meeting a new audience every night and enjoying performing live night after night grew on me.

"It suddenly hit me that I was missing something, so here I am, back on the road."

● Jean Michel Jarre will be appearing at the Manchester Evening News Arena on Saturday, May 23.

CARING AND SHARING

An old couple walk into McDonalds on a cold winter's night.
They looked out of place,lots of young families with their little mites.
They ordered,one hamburger,one drink and a portion of chips.
And from their shared drink they each had a few sips.
The old man cut the burger in half and shared out the fries.
She just sat there watching , to everyones' surprise.
A little girl said,"Why aren't you eating your meal?"
"We share everything,waiting for his teeth,no big deal"
